

The Mass Meeting.

The meeting which met in this place on Saturday last to consider our Indian matters was well attended, every precinct in the county being represented but two. Though smarting under provoking Indian outrages and a keen sense of injustice at the hands of those whose duty it should have been to protect us, it will be observed that a spirit of moderation prevailed, and that the resolutions, although they point to a remedy for our sufferings, clearly indicate that a well guarded policy directs us that we had better "bear with patience the ills we have than fly to others we know not of." Our citizens, ever ready to view calmly and considerately the past overlooking the blunders of military commanders are aiming now at one thing only, that is to have protection, in some shape, before the people of the county shall have been driven together on the Bay, at the point of the fire brand of the savage. To avert, as far as possible, any seeming feeling of resentment toward the military, no resolutions of censure were passed; and as it has been said that soft words turn eth away wrath, we trust that the commander of this Military District will prosecute the war against the Indians, as he has recently given some evidences of doing. He must remember that should we be so fortunate as to have our request granted for volunteer aid, from among ourselves, that considerable time must necessarily elapse before such force can be made available. Indeed, with all the progress that could possibly be made in the organization and equipment of such force, the Indians would have time enough to finish what remains to be done of their devastating work. This, Col. Lippitt can avert if he will only months of them would prefer to be than cooped up in Fort Humboldt or any other post. We believe, also, that the Colonel is mistaken as to the disposition of his troops to hunt Indians. He has an idea that, as they enlisted to go East, they feel no interest, in common with us in the subjugation of these savages. We have seen different detachments going out upon Indian hunts and returning from them and have never yet heard any complaints, or any dissatisfaction expressed except as to the dillatory manner of conducting the campaign, and the overdrawn importance of system and discipline in a mode of warfare necessary in an emergency like ours.

Uncle George Hanson did not fare so well. We have seldom known feelings of a stronger resentment against any public officer manifested than were entertained and expressed by this meeting against him. Hence the resolution asking for his immediate removal, which we trust and believe will prevail. The reasons assigned for this step are set forth in the preamble.

Now by the action of this mass meeting much has been left for our members in the Legislature to perform. They have been left to devise in some cases and act in others. They are fully aware of what will be expected at their hands and are well posted as to our wants. Let them take heed and act accordingly.
