

Highly Important from the Seat of War.—Just as we were going to press we received a copy of the Nyampum Chronicle, which gives an account of a recent engagement with the Bloody Injins. The enemy had concentrated their main force on Van Duzenbury Fork, 700 strong, and had fortified their encampment by digging a trench 120 feet wide and eighty five feet deep; one side of their camp was protected by a perpendicular mountain, a mile and a half high.

The above is from the Trinity Journal, the great Northern Light of newspaper eminence in California. We suppose it means something, but we don't know what that something is.
