

It is useless for the Times to keep up its tone about there being no Indian hostilities. The people of the State are convinced that there are, and that something must be done. It had better keep quiet, and save what credit it has got left.

It is stated that the Indians are plenty and hostile on the route from the coast to the diggings along the rivers in the interior.