

From the Seat of War.

Capt. Judah, in company with Mr. G. W. Tiggart, arrived in town on Tuesday, in advance of his Company, from the Klamath River. He returned in pursuance of orders from Col. Buchanan. Capt. Judah has, by the force of moral suasion prevented a wholesale massacre of the friendly Indians along the river, and in consequence hostilities are confined to the Red Cap and other ranches, the warriors numbering not exceeding fifty.

Mr. Roseborough, the Indian Agent, from Fort Jones, arrived on the Klamath on the 4th instant, and recommended the organization of four companies of volunteers, for the purpose of hunting out the hostile Indians. In pursuance of the recommendation, Captains Flowers and Luffkin proceeded to organize, trusting that the State would reimburse them for the services of their companies.

We learn that Capt. Young, with a party of citizens, guided by two Indians, was in close pursuit of the hostiles on Monday, and it was believed he would catch them.

Mr. Lamb, who was wounded in the first difficulty, died at Preston & Kerbey's store on Saturday, the 3d inst.

THE HUMBOLDT TIMES.

MON, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1855.

War Prospects in Europe.
 The prospects in Europe are not so gloomy as they were some weeks since. The panic in the money market has subsided, and the price of gold has risen. The war in Mexico is still going on, but the prospects are not so dark as they were some weeks since. The war in Mexico is still going on, but the prospects are not so dark as they were some weeks since.

Looking to the evening.
 The evening is a beautiful one. The sun has set, and the stars are shining brightly. The moon is in the sky, and the clouds are dark. The air is cool, and the breeze is soft. It is a pleasant surprise, after the day's heat.

War Prospects in Europe.
 The prospects in Europe are not so gloomy as they were some weeks since. The panic in the money market has subsided, and the price of gold has risen. The war in Mexico is still going on, but the prospects are not so dark as they were some weeks since.

Looking to the evening.
 The evening is a beautiful one. The sun has set, and the stars are shining brightly. The moon is in the sky, and the clouds are dark. The air is cool, and the breeze is soft. It is a pleasant surprise, after the day's heat.

Looking to the evening.
 The evening is a beautiful one. The sun has set, and the stars are shining brightly. The moon is in the sky, and the clouds are dark. The air is cool, and the breeze is soft. It is a pleasant surprise, after the day's heat.

Looking to the evening.
 The evening is a beautiful one. The sun has set, and the stars are shining brightly. The moon is in the sky, and the clouds are dark. The air is cool, and the breeze is soft. It is a pleasant surprise, after the day's heat.