

MASSACRE OF INDIANS.—A late arrival from the north, brings intelligence of a terrible Indian massacre, at Humboldt Bay, on Sunday morning, Febr 26th. Mr. J. A. Lord, the express messenger of Wells, Fargo & Co., furnishes the following particulars of the butchery:

Between three and four o'clock on Sunday morning (26th February) an attack was made by a party of white men, upon the Indians at several villages around Humboldt Bay. At Indian Island, opposite the town of Eureka, and distant but a few hundred yards, more than forty Indians were killed, three-fourths of the number being women and children. On the beach, south of the entrance to the bay, forty or fifty Indians were also killed. Report says all that were there—every one—were killed. It is also reported, and is no doubt true, that a simultaneous attack was made upon the villages on Eel river. From what was known at Eureka, not less than two hundred Indians—men, women and children—were killed on this Sabbath morning. It is believed that the farmers and graziers of Eel river country, who have suffered from Indian depredations, during the past year, were the men who performed the deed. The cause assigned is that the coast Indians furnished arms and ammunition to those in the mountains, and gave them asylum, when hard pressed by the volunteers. They have been seen to take large quantities of beef from the mountains to their houses nearer the settlements. Most of the people at Eureka and vicinity were bitter in their denunciation of this wholesale butchery.
