

ALLEGED KIDNAPPING IN MENDOCINO.—A paragraph has been published in several newspapers of the State purporting to be taken from the Mendocino Herald, to the effect that about the first of March, G. H. Woodman was arrested on the charge of kidnapping Indian children. We understand the facts to be, that certain interested parties caused Woodman to be arrested for alleged kidnapping of thirteen Indian children, but after a rigid examination, in which all the circumstances of the affair were elicited, he was discharged and fully exonerated. It appears that Woodman resides near an Indian rancharia and has employed several of the natives and protected their children, and has thus interfered with the speculating purposes of other parties.

THE SACRAMENTO DAILY UNION

THURSDAY MORNING, MARCH 26, 1863.

PR

UNION. LIVER. SEOBANE.	as Breakridge has been dislodged from his position, the batteries of Wood's division, taking position on the right bank of Stone river, in advance, would see the enemy's work in reverse, would dislodge them, and enable Palmer's division to press them back and drive them westward across the river or through the woods; while Thomas, sustaining the movement on the center, would advance on the left of Belmont, doubling this	advance, but batteries were put in position on the left by which the ground could be swept, and even Murfreesboro reached by the Parrott guns. A heavy and constant picket firing had been kept up on our right and center, and extending to our left, which at last became so annoying, that in the afternoon I directed the corps Commanders to clear their fronts, compelling the woods to the left of Murfreesboro after	States Infantry, and Inspector of Artillery; Captain James Curtis, Fifteenth United States Infantry, Assistant Inspector General; Captain Wilson, Twenty-second Indiana, Provost Marshal General; Captain Michler, Topographical Engineer; Captain Jesse Merrill, of the Signal Corps, whose corps behaved well; Captain Elmer Oils, Fourth Regular Cavalry, who commanded the second regiment, who conducted the rearguard, and	the F is a r becom here prop two here
---------------------------------------	------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----------------------------------------------------------------------