

THE INDIAN DIFFICULTY SETTLED.— We are in receipt of a letter from a friend, dated Fort Strawberry, Klameth river, April 3d, who writes: "I think that matters are in a fine train for a speedy and permanent settlement. Capt. Judah succeeded in collecting all the lower river Indians at this place and held a "big talk" with them to-day.— The Indians will put to death the murderers of the whites and the balance will surrender. The gentleman, who delivers this, will give you more definite information as to to treaty &c, than time will allow me to give you." The gentleman alluded to did not come to this place, but forwarded the letter, and, in consequence, we are unable to obtain anything definite.

Another friend writes us "everything is settled, miners are at work and every branch of business is going on prosperously."

THE AMBOLD TIMES.

UNION CALIFORNIA SATURDAY, APRIL 7 1866.

PT. TIMES, NEWSPAPER

are, Agriculture, Arts, and Manufacture, to the Government, and to the People of the State in General.

EUROPEAN NEWS.

The royal mail steamer Canada arrived at Boston on the 2d March, bringing Liverpool dates to the 17th of February. The New York Herald says: From the seat of war there is little or no additional news of importance, the news of affairs remaining precisely the same as last reported. The Yeter Conference was to open at Vienna on the 26th of Feb.

At the present time the business will be limited to ongoing Gortschakoff a categorical vis or no. Count Wietel, the Prussian envoy to France, remains in Paris, his mission being unaccomplished. His secretary has returned to Berlin for further instructions. The opinion prevails that no terms can be come to between Prussia and the Western Powers, but that Prussia will be left to neutrality and its consequences.

The news of the illness of the Grand Duke produced the greatest commotion at court. The physician of the Emperor was ordered to set out immediately to join them. Some foreign journals have several times announced that the Emperor would leave St. Petersburg to visit the army. I can assure you that nothing is known of it, as well informed circles. The report that General Dapontoff, the Minister of War, is about to go to inspect the army, is also an invention.

log interests such as the gloomiest prospect could never have foreseen. Why the people have been so long silent has been to most reflecting men a matter of wonder and astonishment. They feel most acutely that they have remained hitherto passive spectators of the method in which the New York Tribune and Hearst interests have been squandering the hopes and treasure of the nation. Perhaps they were checked by a feeling of indignation, but at the meeting of Parliament all things would be well. Perhaps they have been content to read their sentiments faithfully reflected in the columns of the press. Whatever be the cause of their silence, the cause exists no longer, and we have to look for an expression of public opinion, not from one end of this country to the other, which will convey to our government the sense of the nation is exhausted, and that the necessity of withdrawing the arms from which our Executive is to be taken is great and imminent.

Mr. Frederic Post has been appointed Secretary of War and Sir Francis Baring, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster. March 4th - The Emperor has issued an ukase calling the whole population of Russia to arms. This is remarked as a measure in reply to the appointment of Lord Palmerston as head of the English government.

An important statement is made that Naples has joined the Western alliance, and will send, besides a fleet of iron-clad ships, a large force to the Crimea. The government of France is preparing a revolution in Italy has brought Naples to join the alliance. The Emperor has issued an ukase calling the whole population of Russia to arms. This is remarked as a measure in reply to the appointment of Lord Palmerston as head of the English government.

At the present time the business will be limited to ongoing Gortschakoff a categorical vis or no. Count Wietel, the Prussian envoy to France, remains in Paris, his mission being unaccomplished. His secretary has returned to Berlin for further instructions. The opinion prevails that no terms can be come to between Prussia and the Western Powers, but that Prussia will be left to neutrality and its consequences.

The news of the illness of the Grand Duke produced the greatest commotion at court. The physician of the Emperor was ordered to set out immediately to join them. Some foreign journals have several times announced that the Emperor would leave St. Petersburg to visit the army. I can assure you that nothing is known of it, as well informed circles. The report that General Dapontoff, the Minister of War, is about to go to inspect the army, is also an invention.

log interests such as the gloomiest prospect could never have foreseen. Why the people have been so long silent has been to most reflecting men a matter of wonder and astonishment. They feel most acutely that they have remained hitherto passive spectators of the method in which the New York Tribune and Hearst interests have been squandering the hopes and treasure of the nation. Perhaps they were checked by a feeling of indignation, but at the meeting of Parliament all things would be well. Perhaps they have been content to read their sentiments faithfully reflected in the columns of the press. Whatever be the cause of their silence, the cause exists no longer, and we have to look for an expression of public opinion, not from one end of this country to the other, which will convey to our government the sense of the nation is exhausted, and that the necessity of withdrawing the arms from which our Executive is to be taken is great and imminent.

There is no change in regard to the siege of Sebastopol. The latest authentic advices are that the Russian General Dabak has a reconnoissance of the allied front. Two French divisions made a demonstration and marched toward the camp. The allies are daily expecting an attack. The pickets have been ordered to be on the alert. The weather is warm. In the night the French were put to flight. Three hundred of the French were put to flight. The French divisions are making steady progress towards the camp. The allies are daily expecting an attack. The pickets have been ordered to be on the alert. The weather is warm. In the night the French were put to flight. Three hundred of the French were put to flight. The French divisions are making steady progress towards the camp.

There is no change in regard to the siege of Sebastopol. The latest authentic advices are that the Russian General Dabak has a reconnoissance of the allied front. Two French divisions made a demonstration and marched toward the camp. The allies are daily expecting an attack. The pickets have been ordered to be on the alert. The weather is warm. In the night the French were put to flight. Three hundred of the French were put to flight. The French divisions are making steady progress towards the camp.

There is no change in regard to the siege of Sebastopol. The latest authentic advices are that the Russian General Dabak has a reconnoissance of the allied front. Two French divisions made a demonstration and marched toward the camp. The allies are daily expecting an attack. The pickets have been ordered to be on the alert. The weather is warm. In the night the French were put to flight. Three hundred of the French were put to flight. The French divisions are making steady progress towards the camp.

There is no change in regard to the siege of Sebastopol. The latest authentic advices are that the Russian General Dabak has a reconnoissance of the allied front. Two French divisions made a demonstration and marched toward the camp. The allies are daily expecting an attack. The pickets have been ordered to be on the alert. The weather is warm. In the night the French were put to flight. Three hundred of the French were put to flight. The French divisions are making steady progress towards the camp.

There is no change in regard to the siege of Sebastopol. The latest authentic advices are that the Russian General Dabak has a reconnoissance of the allied front. Two French divisions made a demonstration and marched toward the camp. The allies are daily expecting an attack. The pickets have been ordered to be on the alert. The weather is warm. In the night the French were put to flight. Three hundred of the French were put to flight. The French divisions are making steady progress towards the camp.

There is no change in regard to the siege of Sebastopol. The latest authentic advices are that the Russian General Dabak has a reconnoissance of the allied front. Two French divisions made a demonstration and marched toward the camp. The allies are daily expecting an attack. The pickets have been ordered to be on the alert. The weather is warm. In the night the French were put to flight. Three hundred of the French were put to flight. The French divisions are making steady progress towards the camp.

There is no change in regard to the siege of Sebastopol. The latest authentic advices are that the Russian General Dabak has a reconnoissance of the allied front. Two French divisions made a demonstration and marched toward the camp. The allies are daily expecting an attack. The pickets have been ordered to be on the alert. The weather is warm. In the night the French were put to flight. Three hundred of the French were put to flight. The French divisions are making steady progress towards the camp.

There is no change in regard to the siege of Sebastopol. The latest authentic advices are that the Russian General Dabak has a reconnoissance of the allied front. Two French divisions made a demonstration and marched toward the camp. The allies are daily expecting an attack. The pickets have been ordered to be on the alert. The weather is warm. In the night the French were put to flight. Three hundred of the French were put to flight. The French divisions are making steady progress towards the camp.

There is no change in regard to the siege of Sebastopol. The latest authentic advices are that the Russian General Dabak has a reconnoissance of the allied front. Two French divisions made a demonstration and marched toward the camp. The allies are daily expecting an attack. The pickets have been ordered to be on the alert. The weather is warm. In the night the French were put to flight. Three hundred of the French were put to flight. The French divisions are making steady progress towards the camp.

There is no change in regard to the siege of Sebastopol. The latest authentic advices are that the Russian General Dabak has a reconnoissance of the allied front. Two French divisions made a demonstration and marched toward the camp. The allies are daily expecting an attack. The pickets have been ordered to be on the alert. The weather is warm. In the night the French were put to flight. Three hundred of the French were put to flight. The French divisions are making steady progress towards the camp.