Consumption in California.—The Sixte Registrar, in his Report, says that the most numerous among the causes of death in this State is "consumption." The greater number of the deaths recorded among the Clinese, are attributable to this disease. This is penhaps, owing somewhat to the difference in climate, but more attributable to this race living in many cases, in damp, ill-ventilated, and, in a great number of instances in underground tenements. Several deaths from consumption, among the Cultionia Indians, adopted into limities and indicted into the customs of civilization, are among those reported.
