

TEHAMA MATTERS.—We notice in the Red Bluff Beacon, of April 6th, the subjoined local intelligence:

The Indians made another foray on the Antelope neighborhood on Friday last. This time they came to the residence of John F. Dye, and stole two horses and four saddles out of his stable, and succeeded in getting off with their booty. Had not another stable been securely locked, they would have stolen his Leviathan stallion, valued at $1,500. Some of the robbers have been caught.

The Indians also came down on Sunday night to Alpaugh & Salsbury's ranch, about two miles from Tehama, on the east side of the river, and stole from them a fine mare and a horse, both American, and valued at $700. Also a good team mule belonging to William Hubbard. They were taken out of a lot but a few yards from the dwelling house, where the family of Salsbury were sleeping. They then proceeded to the next ranch above, owned by a Spaniard, and run off four cows with young calves. Next morning the parties missing their animals proceeded to track them up, and succeeded in getting the cows at the foot of the mountain.

A new plan has been adopted by our neighbors opposite this place to chastise the Indians for their many depredations during the past Winter. Some men are hired to hunt them, who are recompensed by receiving so much for each scalp, or some other satisfactory evidence that they have been killed. The money has been made up by subscription.
