

INDIAN BATTLE — TWENTY-FIVE INDIANS KILLED.—The Humboldt Times says on Sunday morning, the 14th inst., Lieut. Collins with twenty-three U. S. troops from Humboldt, attacked a rancho of Indians on Van Duzee Fork, and in a brief but brisk fight killed twenty and wounded three others. On the next morning they attacked a large Indian village and killed five, and wounded three. The number of warriors at this rancheria was about one hundred and fifty, but they fled at the first charge, leaving the troops in possession. Evidences were found to prove that they killed the white woman at Larabees Ranch, and burned the house. One soldier, named Casey was dangerously wounded by an arrow.

THE RECORD.

FRIDAY, APRIL 27, 1861.

by my lack of feature, my thinness of coun-ce; slangularly, my want of "cheek." I said that my heart was broken. It was

Stray Thoughts.

Silently we're striving—

of
ho