

MORE CATTLE STEALING.—Mr. H. Hollister, just from Humboldt, furnishes information that Mr. Dorris, formerly a butcher of this place, had some twenty head of cattle stolen by Indians on Mad-river, Humboldt county, a few days since. The Indians are growing bolder every day, and do not hesitate to steal and kill cattle when opportunity offers.

There's nothing lost.

By careless hand upon the ground,

Will yet take root, and may at last

Beneath its shade some plighted may

Seek shelter from the heat of noon,

And song birds sing their sweetest tone.

There's nothing lost. The slightest tone

Or whisper from a loved one's voice,

May melt a heart of hardest stone.

And make a saddened heart rejoice;

And then again, the careless word

Our thoughtless lips too often speak,

May smother a heart already stricken.

And cause the troubled heart to break.

There's nothing lost.—The faintest tend

In memory from some dear one's love,

Though every mortal being be made,

The music of some happier hour,

The hap that wells with love's own weal,

Will never pass from our remembrance.
