 THE INSANE ASYLUM.
 The Assembly Committee, on State Hospitals, having examined the Insane Asylum, conclude their report as follows:

It would be a pleasure to your committee if they could report as favorably of the curative department of the institution as we have been enabled to do of the military, police, and financial departments. The general health of the inmates of the institution, it is true, is good; but the first great and high object to be attained by and through the institution, is the restoring of those lamentably unfortunate creatures to reason immediately, or in the briefest possible period, and also discover, disclose, and transmit up, new light and knowledge upon the subject of treatment, whether moral or medical, in this startling malady. The aid that this State might, and should, thus give to science, and thus indirectly greatly aid afflicted humanity beyond her borders, would add power and luster to her pillar of greatness well worthy to be sought for by her.

able physician writes, (page five): It cannot be too often repeated, that the date of the patient's illness at the time of admission, is the chief circumstance which determines whether four months in a hundred, or seventy-five in a hundred, shall be discharged cured.

The following is from the Select Medical Library (new series) and Bulletin of Medical Science, for July, eighteen hundred and forty-one, book three, page forty-ninth: "Since it has been found that upwards of eighty insane patients in the hundred can be restored to the enjoyment of their mental faculties, when the mania is treated in the earliest stages, we may consider insanity as a disease as likely to be relieved, as any other affection."

In connection with these authorities we will give a statement of the admissions, discharges, and deaths, in the Stockton Asylum, since the first of December, eight hundred and fifty-eight, to the twenty-eighth of February, eighteen hundred and sixty-one, a period of twenty-seven months, excluding from this statement all persons in the asylum previous to December one, eighteen hundred and fifty-eight—thus presenting a basis of recent cases:

Number admitted, 600
 Number discharged, 293
 Number died, 74
 Per cent. discharged, 48 2/3
 Per cent. died, 12 1/3
 We find in the report of Dr. Langdon, that during the first three months he had charge of the institution, the number of patients discharged, exceeded the number admitted. When he (Langdon) took charge of the institution, the number of patients on hand was one hundred and eighty-eight; admitted, thirty-nine; discharged, sixty-one.
