

VISITORS.—We observed a new digger ranch on Indian Island, one day this week. It appeared to contain fifteen or twenty diggers, who, we presume belong to neighboring tribes, and are paying a visit to their Island friends. It is customary, during the summer season, for Indians from various localities to quarter on the Island to fish, and we are not sure but it has often been made the hiding place of mountain Indians, who find it necessary to keep out of the way of whites.
