

Good.—We learn that two men from near the mouth of Bel river, named Johnson and Baker, paid a visit to the Klamath Reservation recently in quest of squaws. They were treated with lodgings in the guard house for one night, by Col. Buel, and sent on their way next morning without any breakfast or squaws either.

