DECLARATION OF MR. SIDELL.—M. Emilio do
Girardin, the well-known publicist, of Paris, stated some time ago that in conversation with Mr. Sidell, the Confederate "Commissioner," in that city, the latter had assured him that "the South was disposed to disencumber itself of

SHAMUS O'URLEN.

Just after the war in the year '98,
When all of the boys they were scattered and hid,
'Twas the custom, we never a point was right,
To hang him by throat—harrin' such as was that.
There was that'd by jury gain' by day night,
Ah! the martial law laugh'd the lawns by night.
