

INDIAN TROUBLES.—We learn from Mr. Clark, who came up from Mattole this week, that the Indians at Kush-Kish, about 12 miles below Mattole, are becoming hostile. They fired a shower of arrows at Mr. Cunningham, a farmer in Mattole, while passing through their country, and shot his horse. A hunter was afterwards attacked by an Indian in that vicinity. The Indian made an effort to snatch his gun from him, but did not succeed, and was killed by the white man.—Parties traveling that way should be on their guard.
