

SIGNALIZING.—We understand that the companies who recently went out after the Indians had no success whatever. As soon as they appeared on the trails, the Valley Indians (who pretend to be friendly) lit signal fires on the hill tops and thus warned them of their danger. Secret and small companies, starting out with an absence of flourish and warlike preparation, may effect something, and will probably be organized. The signs of the times indicate a sudden and summary vengeance upon the Valley Indians, if they do not mend in one respect or two, their conduct. We hope, however, that no injustice will be perpetrated; for while the savages must be duly punished, we should always remember that we are a civilized and a Christian people.

INDIANS.—We are informed that on Sunday night last a company of Indians visited the ranch of Mr. Cromley, in Antelope valley, and threshed out and packed off about 20 bushels of wheat. On Monday evening they went to Mr. Hickman's place, in the Antelope valley, and almost totally destroyed his garden. We have on our table an arrow pulled from an ox in that neighborhood, on Monday last, by J. S. Butler. It had the appearance of having been recently shot into the animal, as the wound was fresh and still bleeding. The ox was not wounded mortally.
