INDIAN MURDER IN PLUMAS.—The Plumas Argus relates that a man named Painter recently killed an Indian at Deep Hole Springs on the Humboldt road, under the following circumstances: The party, had two horses stolen by the Indians and started in pursuit. They came upon an Indian who told them where the horses were, and expressed himself willing to accompany, the party. After traveling some distance, Hainter came to the conclusion, that the Indian was fooling them, and raising his rifle shot and scalped him.
