

INDIAN TROUBLES IN BUTTE.—The Marysville Appeal of July 26th, has the following: A proclamation had been issued, threatening all Indians who did not come in by Saturday night and deliver themselves up, with extermination. One hundred and three came in to Chico on Saturday morning, and expressed a willingness to be put in charge of the Sub-Indian Agent. The body of the second Lewis boy had been found at the foot of a precipice over which he had been thrown by his captors. The girl captured made her escape by a shrewd piece of strategy for one so young. The party of Indians who captured her, nine in number, killed an ox; and when they came to the foot of a high hill the girl pretended to be entirely exhausted and unable to walk any further. She asked them to let her lie on the ground till they carried the ox up the hill, and then carry her up. They went on with their burden, leaving her; and when they had nearly reached the top of the hill, she sprang up and ran with all her might. They pursued her, and she only eluded them by crawling into the thickest chapparal when they passed near her, and running when they disappeared. When she finally reached a grain field and left the chapparal, they saw and followed her till the workmen in the field, who ran toward the girl when they heard her call, saw them. They then turned and disappeared in the chapparal, and the girl was safe.

THE CAUCASIAN IN CALIFORNIA.
We have submitted with as good grace as possible to the suppression of our paper in States like Missouri, and to be in the future, and to have a more liberal and intelligent press than we have any where else in the States. We are glad to see that the suppression of our paper in California, thousands of miles from our homes, has been a failure. It is a good sign, and it is a sign that the people of California are beginning to see the error of their ways. We are glad to see that the people of California are beginning to see the error of their ways. We are glad to see that the people of California are beginning to see the error of their ways.

TO THE MINERS BELONG THE MINES.
Notwithstanding the desperate state in which the administration, with the aid of the collector, has placed the mining industry, we are glad to see that the people of California are beginning to see the error of their ways. We are glad to see that the people of California are beginning to see the error of their ways. We are glad to see that the people of California are beginning to see the error of their ways.

FRAUD UPON THE BALLOT BOX.
Under the other of the other press by the last Legislature, the people of California are beginning to see the error of their ways. We are glad to see that the people of California are beginning to see the error of their ways. We are glad to see that the people of California are beginning to see the error of their ways.

Death of Hon. John F. Crittenden.
By telegraphic dispatch it is announced that the Representative of the State of Kentucky, departed this life on the 26th of July, aged 77 years. Thus they depart, and none are left to fill their places. Mr. Crittenden is a man of noble mind and noble heart, and his death is a great loss to the country. He was a man of noble mind and noble heart, and his death is a great loss to the country.

THE NATIONAL ADMINISTRATION AND THE MINES.
The national administration intend to keep the mines of California, Oregon, and Nevada territory in some form or other revenue, is a fact. We have been favored by friends with extracts from two papers which justify the statement of the people of the State of California, which are all either directly or indirectly interested in all that concerns the mines. The action of the national administration in the Almaden case, is a slope sufficient proof of the designs of the administration. It may be that no further action will be taken until after our election, but then the work of administration will be a certain one. By reference to these extracts the reader will see that the leading republicans are imploring the President to save them from total defeat in the fall by saving the mines of California, Oregon, and Nevada as a revenue measure, and one which they hope will enable the administration to relieve the people of those States of the burden of taxation now oppressing them. It is contended that California and Oregon have but few voters and that it is better to lose their support by the seizure of the mines, than to be defeated in nearly all the other States. It is contended, too, that the mines are the property of the nation, and that those now in possession of them have no more right to them than the people of the States, now groaning under burthens of taxation, and that therefore, the mines of the Pacific country should be so disposed of as to revenue, as far as possible, those who have have and never expect benefit from them in any other form. The influences, which have been at work are powerful, and we fear have not been started in vain. We commend the extracts appended to the "Retail Consol" of the State of California.
