

ARRIVAL OF TROOPS.—Two companies of Second Infantry, C. V., under command of Major Curtis, arrived here Thursday on the Panama and were marched to quarters at Fort Humboldt. The Herald and Mirror says "they had shipped from Washington Territory for Humboldt Bay but the steamer not being able to get into the latter port they had to come down here and await the sailing of an upward bound steamer."—Humbug! What prevented the Pacific from landing the troops at this port on the downward trip? Simply because somebody wanted another chance to make a good haul out of Government. "Only that and nothing more." We do not understand that this is any addition to the force in this district, as Capt. Ketchum's and Capt. Johns' companies are to leave as soon as practicable.

THE HUMBOLDT TIMES.

EUREKA, HUMBOLDT COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, AUGUST 9, 1862.

Directory. W. A. G. H. & Co., East 17. he has two of Phoe- Cadden William Ta- 5.17	The Parting Hour. BY THE LATE EDWARD POLLOCK. The following exquisite poem was written by the late Edward Pollock, the gifted California poet, on the 6th of January, 1857. The occasion that gave rise to the sentiment so beautifully clothed in	The Counterparts. BY ONE OF THE PARTY. A quiet, unceremonial life was mine, until I left the shelter of my father's roof, and accepted the desk of a book-keeper in the wholesale clothing establishment of Shears & Prescott, in the busy town of	At this moment the photon stopped at the door of a fine old mansion, and mechanically I alighted and lifted out my companions. The hall door was flung open. The clasping hand of the young lady drew me within the vestibule—her musical voice called softly, at the door of a boudoir:	The Musician and Counselor. The following anecdote is told of T. Cooke, the actor and musician: At a trial in the Court of Kings Ben in June 1833, notwithstanding certain published twaddledams and twoddledoon, as to alleged piracy of an arrangement of
---	---	---	--	--