

~~COLONIZING THE BALD HILLS.~~—Some stock owners of the River intend to start a stock ranch East of the Redwood, near the head of Yager Creek. The settled portions of the county are becoming so much crowded with stock that it is necessary to seek new ranges. The country to the East of us has remained vacant thus long, in consequence of the miserable diggers who infest it, but as soon as a commencement of a settlement is made they will have to leave or behave themselves.— We understand this pioneer party think of asking Maj. Raines to send out a few troops in that neighborhood for a short time, until others settle about them. This would be a very good plan, and if there are troops to spare from the Fort, we have no doubt Maj. Raines would cheerfully send out a detachment; it would be employing them to a very good purpose.
