

THE INDIANS.—Emissaries from the northern tribes are now visiting the Indians of the Sacramento Valley, to induce them to rise and unite in a general war against the whites. The Sacramento State Journal, on reliable authority, asserts that no less than forty of these emissaries, in parties of twos and threes, have visited the Chief of the Valley tribe, but without success, as the latter are too weak and too dependent to involve themselves in a war with such formidable enemies as the whites would prove.
