

PERSONAL.—Col. Barbour, one of the Indian Commissioners, arrived in town a day or two ago, en route for San Francisco. The Col. is just down from the settlements of the Indians, and from him we learn that all of them are in a peaceful and quiet state, observing their treaties with faithfulness, and their new avocations with zeal and energy worthy of example. The whites in the neighborhood are rendering good service in the preservation of peace with the different tribes, and the general aspect of our Indian affairs is of the most favorable character.—[Stock.
