

INDIAN MATTERS.—John Breckenridge, in a card in the Red Bluff Beacon, under date of September 8d, makes the following statement:

While myself and three other men were in charge of ten Indian prisoners on Butte creek, that had been captured by General Kibbe's command—one Cain, a miner, came to them and claimed a squaw, one of the prisoners—and undertook to take her away, when he was prevented from doing so by my men and myself. Said Cain then went down the creek, and in about two hours returned with a mob of forty-five men, and Deputy Sheriff Cheesman, and took H. S. Sadorus, G. M. Stratton and M. Amesby and myself prisoners, and released all the Indians. Said Cain took the squaw he claimed, on the 27th of August, to Doxtown, and was there married to her while her "Buck" was still alive, although shot. I am of the opinion that the only motive the mob had was to secure the squaws and keep them on the creek.

SACRAMENTO DAILY

SACRAMENTO, THURSDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 8, 1859.

ROAD TRAVEL.
ARRANGEMENT—S.V.R.R.

AFTER THE FIRST OF
the Cars of the Sacramento Val-

SACRAMENTO DAILY UNION.
THE ATLANTIC NEWS IN DETAIL.
LETTER FROM ST. LOUIS.
THE SOUTHERN OVERLAND MAIL.

The extent of the liabilities was not known, but the failure is said to have been a bad one.
A dispatch from Columbus, Ohio, August 1st says:
"This morning, Peck, Carpenter and Fairbank of Obelin, who were here attending the Anti-Slavery Convention, were served with notice of suit instituted against them by J. K. Lowe United States District Marshal for false statements."