

INDIANS ON ELK RIVER.—Col. Hagens informs us that a colt belonging to Mr. Able, of Elk river, was shot on Thursday, by Indians. It was shot with an arrow, and from the tracks there were probably from six to ten Indians in the band. The citizens were after them yesterday.

A detachment of Capt. O'Brien's company, with their guide, Stephen Fleming, came on a party of Indians, one day this week, in the vicinity of Fort Seward, and were fired upon by them. The detachment consisted of fifteen men and the Indians about three hundred. One Indian boy, with the whites, was wounded,

Three Hundred Thousand More.

We are coming, Father Abram, three hundred thousand more, from Mississippi's winding stream, and from New-England's shore; We leave our plows and workshops, our wives and children dear, with hearts too full for utterance with him

The Eight Days' Experiences.

In the Yates County (N. Y.) Chronicle of July 17th, we find such an interesting account of the horrors of war, and of the experiences of our army before Richmond, during the eight days preceding the fourth of July; that we are compelled to refer to an insertion in our

Virginia. I galloped along through the fields ahead of the left flankers, and rode into the yard of Dr. Turner, who had left for Richmond. A few well dressed house servants were in the yard, and appeared to be glad to see us. I asked them if they could give us some milk. "Oh, yes," they answered, and I as
