INDIANS.—We have, for some time past, intended to call the attention of the Superintendent of Indian Affairs to the condition of the Indians in this section. A sub-agent should have been appointed to live on a reservation for the purpose of watching and preserving the interests of the tribes, and collecting the taxes and duties imposed upon them. A sub-agent is the agent of the Indian agent, and is to be his representative in the field. The duties of the sub-agent are to collect the taxes and duties imposed upon the Indians, and to see that the laws are enforced. The agent of an Indian tribe is the representative of the tribe, and is to be the agent of the sub-agent in the field. The duties of the agent of an Indian tribe are to collect the taxes and duties imposed upon the tribe, and to see that the laws are enforced. The duties of the sub-agent are to collect the taxes and duties imposed upon the tribe, and to see that the laws are enforced. The duties of the agent of an Indian tribe are to collect the taxes and duties imposed upon the tribe, and to see that the laws are enforced.