

A FIGHTING DIGGER.—Not long ago Lieut. Hempfield captured a Digger near Fort Gaston who was generally believed to be a bad character. He was lodged in the Guard House. Several days after he succeeded in effecting the loan of a large pocket knife from a white prisoner who kept him company, and with it immediately attacked him, inflicting a severe wound in the hip; then started for the door, where he met Maj. Taylor, who had been attracted by the noise inside, and attacked him, inflicting an ugly gash in the cheek. A moment after he was riddled by a dozen bullets from the guard. When he attacked the Major he remarked that he was the Indian who killed Madame Weaver.

Weekly Trinity Journal

A Family Newspaper, Independent in Politics, and Devoted to the Advancement of Home Interests.

WEAVERVILLE, CALIFORNIA, SEPTEMBER 26, 1863.

PEOPLE'S

Special Notices.

Weekly Trinity Journal.

Published
BY ADAM CRAN.