The Shasta Courier of the 25th inst. says that a miner named Mitchell was murdered, on the east side of the Sacramento river, near Churn Creek, on the 17th. He was shot through the temple, and his brains beaten out. Two men, named Tom Bates and Ira Tattum, supposed to be guilty of the murder, were pursued and arrested by Capt. Corsant, near Feather River.

The Courier also says that Hiram Lusk, of Rhodes & Lusk's Express, was severely wounded in the leg by the accidental discharge of one of Colt's revolvers—the belt which contained it becoming entangled in their office counter, and causing the pistol to fall upon the floor. The wound is not considered serious.

A murder was committed near Weaverville on the person of a miner named William Holt, formerly of Cole county, Mo., aged about twenty-four years. His corpse was found on the summit of the mountain, about three miles east of Weaverville, pierced by a bullet through the breast. The supposed murderers have been arrested.

THE Indians in this county during the last ten days have committed quite a number of depredations. On Whisky Creek, a section never troubled by them before, besides robbing several cabins of blankets, provisions, &c., they drove off some twelve or fourteen head of horses and mules. We understand that Messrs. Larabee & Co., Johnson and Baker were the principal losers.—Shasta Courier.
