Hymn of Advent.

Much devotional poetry found in hymn collections is of very inferior merit; indeed without disrespect to the faith and august object of christian adoration, many so accepted sacred songs are the veriest doggerel, beneath the standard

TEMPESTUOUS BUSINESS MAN.—We used to see a man in Sacramento, hurrying up and down J street, every Saturday morning, with a collecting book, a large roll of accounts and a money bag in his hand. He was remarkable above all others, from the extreme impetuousness of his gait,
