

Indian Reservations.

The time has been when a deep interest was felt in the rude children of the forest, and the circumstances connected with their history, their situation and their fate: furnished the theme for conversation during many a long evening. But that spirit, which mocked at the restraints of civilized life, which loved the pathless wilderness, the unbroken solitude, and the pure blue sky, and which listened with reverence to the voice of the "Great Spirit," speaking in every passing change, has been completely broken; and the once glad possessors of these beautiful valleys and hill sides, are now wasting away, affording at the present only pitiful objects of curiosity and compassion, sunken and degraded by vices, and seemingly destitute of every thing, save an outward form, upon which they may ground their claim to a membership of the human family.

Under these circumstances, not only for the sake of humanity, but as a matter of justice and right, the Federal Government adopted the policy of locating them upon tracts of the public land, where they might receive such care as their necessities strongly demand.—Accordingly, the reservations were set off, and the work of removal actively commenced. Every thing was there provided for their comfort and welfare, and had it not been for the foolish opposition of a few white men, the purpose of the Government would ere this have been fully carried out. In consequence of this opposition many yet remain, and disease, want, discontent, and a multitude of evils are rapidly destroying them. Their thievish disposition renders them a serious trouble to the miners and ranch men in various portions of the State, and a strong desire is expressed by the majority of the people that the remnant of the tribes may be removed.

For this purpose Mr. Storms, sub-agent, is now in this vicinity, and with a little co-operation on the part of the people, the desired object may be effected.—The Indians themselves know, from the representations of their brethren at the Reservation, that once there, they will be well cared for, and on their part no particular reluctance is manifested. The people of the State favor the idea, and justice and humanity favor the removal. It is no longer had not been for the opposed of a few white men, the purpose of the Government would ere this have been fully carried out. In consequence of this opposition many yet remain, and disease, want, discontent, and a multitude of evils are rapidly destroying them. Their thievish disposition renders them a serious trouble

to the miners and ranch men in various portions of the State, and a strong desire is expressed by the majority of the people that the remnant of the tribes may be removed.

For this purpose Mr. Storms, sub-agent, is now in this vicinity, and with a little
co-operation on the part of the people,
the desired object may be effected.—
The Indians themselves know, from the representations of their brethren at the Reservation, that once there, they will be well cared for, and on their part no particular reluctance is manifested. The people of the State favor the idea, and justice and humanity favor the removal. It is no longer an experiment, for their improved condition
at the Reservation is now an established fact. Every thing has been accomplished by Col. Henly and his assistants which ingenuity could devise, and from various sources we learn that the Indians there are leading a quiet, happy life, conducing to their own support, and improving in every particular their condition.

Mr. Storms is now up with the intention of removing the remainder, and it is to be hoped that he may be successful in his mission.

MOCRAT, Tuesday Morning, REET, NEVADA, Brick Building 75. 17 00 2 00 25 cts.

A PICTURE. FROM THE ORRMAN. A cottage in Switzerland. The old mother spins in a corner of the common sitting-room; the deaf and silent father is reading in the old family Bible...

The New Congress.—The following article from the Chicago Times, corrected, is an important error. The classification referred to, has been going the rounds of the papers, and was generally believed to be an accurate statement concerning the strength of parties in the thirty-fourth Congress.

Business Cards. JOHN K. DALLISON, General Agent, Book-keeper, Accountant and Bill Collector.

THOMAS MARSH, SIGN AND ORNAMENTAL PAINTING AND HOUSE LINING.

CH. C. ORDEMANN, ARCHITECT AND CIVIL ENGINEER.

BANKING HOUSE. MY CONNECTION with the House of WELLS, Fargo & Co., at Nevada, having this day expired...

REAL ESTATE BROKER, (David Brick Block, Broad street, Nevada.) Will lease and manage Real Estate, collect Rents, Notes and Accounts, and draw up Deeds and Mortgages.

DREXEL, SATHER & CHURCH, BANKERS. Corner 3d and J Streets, Sacramento.

WM. W. GIFT & CO., Corner of Third and J Streets, Sacramento. WILL EXCHANGE DRAWN BY THE BANKERS.

HAT STORE. 52 1/2 St. next door to No. 10, Sacramento. COLLINGS, HAT MERCHANTS, of Gentlemen's Hats, Caps, &c.

READ AND REPLY. DR. CHARLES H. T. TO THE AFFLICTED. Quick Cures and Loin Pain.

Public Notice to the Public. Messrs. S. H. Parsons & Co. inform that they have been appointed by the State of California, to receive and sell the public lands...

fish, feather'd thing, tacit, touch thy wing, rick he would be at, and yet a groan y face my own.

The California Mail is responsible for the following: An Unpleasant Stack-Effect.—Herr Menga, a deservedly popular member of the House of Representatives...

Removal New Store!! DEER CREEK BAKERY AND MEAT AND VEGETABLE MARKET.

Wholesale & Retail LIQUOR STORE. THE UNDESIGNED WHO INFORM THE PUBLIC that they have opened a MOST EXTENSIVE ASSORTMENT OF BLENDING LIQUORS.

Whiskey, Brandy, Gin, Porter, Ale, Cider, &c., &c. Also—All kinds of Case Liquors, Cordons, Syrups, &c., &c.

W. F. ANDERSON, ATTORNEY AT LAW. Office, over E. Skiffman's building, Main Street, Nevada.

J. R. McCONNELL & STEWART, ATTORNEYS & COUNSELLORS AT LAW. Will practice in all the Courts of the Fourth Judicial District, and in the Supreme Court.

FRANZ & CO., West side of Commercial street, next door to Pearce & Reardon's Brick Building.

SASH AND DOOR FACTORY. L. P. STILES, Corner of Pine and Commercial sts. Nevada.

MOUNTAIN CROCKERY AND GLASSWARE. BRICK STORE, MAIN STREET. Consisting of a new and full assortment of Crockery, Glass, Britannia, Cutlery and Willow Ware, Lamps, Oilburners, Lamp Glasses and Fixtures, Champagne Lamps, Oil, Alcohol and Etcid.

Public Notice to the Public. Messrs. S. H. Parsons & Co. inform that they have been appointed by the State of California, to receive and sell the public lands...