*Obtained from a report of the secretary of state of California, on the Census of 1852, in which they are designated as "domesticated Indians." Superintendent Beale, in November, 1852, estimated the Indian population of California at from 75,000 to 100,000. Commissioners Barbour and Wozeneraft, in March, 1851, 200,000 to 300,000, though their colleague, Redick McKee, e.g., at the same time stated that he had information which would greatly reduce that number. And the Spanish missionary authorities reported it to be, in 1802, 82,281. The census of the State of California is believed to be the most reliable.

*Possibly some of the tribes embraced in this statement, especially those inhabiting the mountainous regions and the plains, are not correctly reported; their numbers may exceed or fall short of the estimate here made of them. The Indian population within the limits of the United States Territory, exclusive of a few in several of the States, who have lost their tribal character or amalgamated with whites or blacks, may be estimated at from $20,000 to $50,000.
