

YOUNG INDIAN SKELETON.— We are informed by Gen. Kibbe that he has among his prisoners an Indian which is the most remarkable curiosity he has ever observed among the freaks of nature. He is from sixteen to twenty years of age, and is nothing more nor less than a living skeleton. The Indians say he has always enjoyed good health, and has never had any flesh on his bones. The Gen. says that an Indian's hide stretched over a skeleton would be a perfect picture of this natural curiosity.
