T. J. HENLEY, SUPERINTENDENT OF INDIAN AFFAIRS.—We mentioned, recently, that T. J. Henley had been accused of fraud in the Washington correspondence of the Alta, and had published a statement contradicting the same. It appeared in that paper Dec. 17th. It states substantially, on the authority of several business firms, that T. J. Henley has been, during the last three years, a regular purchaser of goods from them for the use of the Indian Department, and that the prices paid were invariably at the lowest cash rates; and that the prices inserted in the official vouchers, as signed, were the identical prices paid by Henley for the goods purchased, as an inspection of the books will show. No such transaction as procuring goods at one price and obtaining receipts at another was ever attempted, or intimated, by the Superintendent of Indian Affairs during the whole period of business transaction with him. All vouchers signed were carefully examined and compared with the entries in the books. They were never requested to sign blank vouchers.
