

Deaths on the Rio Grande from cholera were very frequent at last accounts, which must render that route unpopular with future emigrants.

The new line of stages between this city and the Mills is in the 'full tide of successful operation.' The gentlemanly and obliging proprietors deserve all the patronage they are receiving.

At a meeting of the Mormon Island Mining Association, held June 15th, 1849, the following resolutions were presented by the secretary and unanimously adopted:

Whereas, Chas. Leonard, James K. Sargeant and Nathan English, three of the original members of this Association, were unfortunately killed by Indians during the interval of adjournment last spring, Therefore,

Resolved, That respecting the rights of the deceased to the fruits of their labor, the Association do decide, as the best plan for doing justice to those rights, that the shares of Chas. Leonard, Jas. K. Sargeant and Nathan English, deceased, be let out to other persons to work on halves, the Association holding the proceeds of the other three half shares subject to the order of the heirs, executors or administrators of the deceased; the said heirs, executors or administrators to be recognized as such by the Association or by law, and who must make their application on or before the first of January, 1850, and failing to do this, the three half shares to fall to the use and benefit of the Association

Resolved, As the heirs, friends and particular past residence of the deceased are unknown to the Association, that the above proceedings be published in the papers of this country, and as far as possible in the papers of Oregon and the States—especially of Maine, Massachusetts, Missouri and Oregon.
