

Gen. BEAN, arrived here on Saturday, looking in fine health, after nearly five months arduous service on our Indian Frontier. He has done a great deal towards correcting the many abuses which the south has so long suffered, not only from the Indians, but from bad white men who infest this portion of the State. It is to be regretted that an officer who has shown himself so honest, capable and disinterested, and whose services are so sadly needed at this time, in preventing the incursions of the savages upon our exposed settlements, should be under the absolute necessity of disbanding his forces for want of funds for their maintenance.

The warm greeting the General received on his arrival here, shows how highly his services have been appreciated, and the kind smiles with which the lovely señoritas received him, was enough to melt the heart of an anchorite. J.
