Later from the South—Arrival of the Sea Bird.

The steamer Sea Bird, Capt. R. S. Haley, arrived yesterday. She left San Diego on the 25th at 7 P. M. We have received by her a copy of the Los Angeles Star of Jan. 24th, one week later than previously received. We clip the following items from the Star:

LOS ANGELES VOLUNTEERS.—Capt. Fitzgerald's company returned to town last Tuesday, after an absence of about seven weeks, spent in the service of the State against the hostile Indians. Notwithstanding they have had a rather hard time—having suffered for proper food, and their outfit being entirely unfit for a campaign in the mountains in the rainy season—they are all well and looking fiely. They report every thing quiet at the scene of the late disturbances.

MORE INDIAN HOSTILITIES—MAN SHOT.—A letter was received by the President of the Salt Spring Mining Company, last Wednesday, from Mr. Calpin, one of the men engaged in working the desert mine, giving an account of an assault by the Indians upon the men who are at work there. The facts are these :

On the afternoon of the 13th inst. a man (a Mexican, we believe,) was returning to what is called the old camp with some animals, and when he had arrived within about 200 yards, he was waylaid by a party of 10 Indians, who opened a fire upon him with their arrows, following him up as he retreated to the camp. One of the arrows took effect in his head, and another just below his shoulder blade, the latter inflicting a severe wound. The man was armed with but one pistol, which he discharged at the chief. At this the Indians fled, taking with them the animals. The alarm was immediately given at the camp, and the few men there sallied out, and pressing hard upon the Indians obliged them to abandon the animals, but could not prevent the escape of the Indians, who fled to the mountains, in their haste leaving behind some of their arrows.

On returning to camp it was discovered that one of the

On returning to camp it was discovered that one of the horses had been pierced by an arrow, from the effects of which he shortly after died.

DUARTE.—The horse thief who was arrested at the Mission San Gabriel last week, appears to be a finished villain. As a son of Mr. Waite was conveying him to the house of Capt. Taylor, for safe keeping, the fellow attacked and overpowered the boy, and beating him severely made good his escape.

Mr. Joseph White, whose safety was feared for, writes to the Star, from Rancho del Chino.

Juan Antonio, the Cahuilla chief, paid a visit to Los Angeles on Wednesday last, with a hundred of his followers. They came to collect presents for their conduct in the late war.

Four Indians were given fifty lashes each for stealing some goods at San Pedro.
