THROUGH ANTHONY & CO.'S EXPRESS.

The Senator arrived this morning at a quarter before two o'clock. We are indebted to Anthony & Co. for the early delivery of the Bay papers.

We are also indebted to Adams & Co. for papers.

From some cause our correspondence from San Francisco and Benicia failed to reach us.

The papers from below do not contain a line of news of any description.

Arrival of the Ohio—Later from the South.

The steamer Ohio, four days from San Diego, arrived yesterday morning.

The Sea Bird, which started some time ago in search of the Independence, designed proceeding as far as Mazatlan, in case the missing boat should not be heard of sooner. She had not returned when the Ohio left.

By this arrival we have received San Diego papers to March 19th, and the Los Angeles Star to March 26th: twenty-one days later.

The news brought by the Ohio is unimportant.

We copy the following from the Los Angeles Star:

INDIAN TROUBLES BREWING.—A delegation of thirty-two Cahuilla Indians came to town this week, on a visit to Mr. Wilson, the Indian Agent, to whom they make the following complaint: That Mr. Weaver, at San Geronio, has annoyed them

Mr. weaver, at San Geronimo, has annoyed them by shooting their animals, and imposing upon them in various ways, for some time past; and that to their repeated protestations he pays no regard. Mr. Wilson was unable to afford them any redress of relief, as their case comes within the civil jurisdiction of the State; but he has requested the justice of the peace of San Bernardino to take the matter in hand and look into the facts.

It is deeply to be regretted that any cause exists for complaints of this nature, though of course we have heard but one side of the story. It is not probable, however, that these Indians would come thus far to tell their grievances without good reason. They say that according to the treaty made by them with Gen. Bean and Commissioner Wozecraft, a portion of land was ceded to them, and they claim the right to occupy it and pursue their avocations, whatever they may be, unmolested. Their captains have been implored to take vengeance into their own hands, which, they aver, they could easily do, but they have been restrained thus far from committing any acts of violence.
