FROM THE INTERIOR.

Yuba.

Yuba.

We are indebted to Adams & Co. for the Express of Wednesday. We copy therefrom the following item:

TRACY'S SERENADERS.—Monday night was the opening performance of this popular company. The theater was well filled and the performances decidedly creditable. We learn that it is the intention of the company to spend several days with us, and it has been suggested that they will give a benefit, before leaving, for a charitable purpose.

Sonoma.

The Bulletin predicts that four separate tickets will be run in Sonoma county at the ensuing election. This paper predicts that Bigler will carry the county, although it does not hoist his name at the head of its columns.

The Sonoma Post office has taken refuge in a butcher's shop.

Right Rev. Bishop Allemani is expected to be at Sonoma on the 6th and 7th prox., to administer confirmation.

A new flour mill has gone into operation in Petaluma Valley.

A sweepstake race comes off at Sonoma on the 13th prox.

Petaluma City is rapidly progressing in building, trade and population. Eight or nine buildings are in process of erection.

On Thursday last rain fell in sufficient quantities to allay the drought.

tities to allay the dust.

San Joaquin.

The Stockton Journal of Wednesday was first handed us by Wells, Fargo & Co. We compile the intelligence found in its columns as follows:

The Whig County Convention assembles on the 8th prox. This body is to consist of 70 delegates.

A Camp Meeting is to be held in the neighborhood of Stockton on the 5th August.

THE INDIAN HUNT—THE VALLEYS IN THE MOUNTAINS.—A portion of the Tuolumne company that started into the mountains to chastise the Indians for recent outrages in that county, were out eleven days. Having had nothing to eat for the last two days, they were considerably reduced when they got back to the settlements. They describe portions of the country between the forks of the Merced, as being the most beautiful and picturesque in California, abounding with lakes and valleys, which are surrounded by high hills and lofty mountains, with large streams of pure water, and valleys carpeted with grass and rich flowers interspersed in every direction.

“MARY.”—There is considerable anxiety to know who our fair advertiser is; and many are the conjectures as to her identity. We are not at liberty, neither are we inclined to disclose her name; yet the curious may rest assured that the offer is genuine. The lady is an actuality—her charms are real—and her property substantial. She is a woman of business habits—wants a business husband---and the two will go into business together. Any gentleman in search of such an opportunity, cannot do better than respond.

HAY.---The quantity of hay cut this year, in San Joaquin Valley, is not near so great as last year. The high water prevented many from cutting who had been waiting patiently since last summer. The present price owing to this failure, is about double what it was at this time last July. Twenty dollars per ton is readily paid for baled hay, and fifteen for stacked paid for baled hay, and fifteen for stacked.

TALL CORN.---A gentleman who owns a farm in this vicinity, says that he has corn upon his place that will measure six feet from the ground to the ear. He could not inform us as to the quality of the seed planted, but thinks it was the large white corn that grows in the western and southern States. Such a growth as this cannot be scared up every day.

RETURNED FROM SALT LAKE.--Mr. Canavan returned on Friday last, from a trip to the Great Salt Lake City, whither he went to purchase stock. In the object of his visit, we believe he succeeded very well, although prices ranged much higher than he anticipated they would. He paid $80 and in some cases $100 for a cow, and from $150 to $200 for a yoke of oxen. Stock brings a very good price at Salt Lake.

The emigration is just getting in from the States, although Mr. Canavan does not think it will bear any comparison, in point of number, to what came in other years. Great quantities of stock, however, are being brought across by the emigrants.
