Sacramento Daily Union, Volume 5, Number 753, 23 August 1853 — Sonoma. [ARTICLE]

Sonoma.

The Bulletin has at length "broken cover," and in a short paragraph commends John Bigler to the kind regards of the settlers and others of Sonoma.

THE SMALL POX.—We regret to announce the fact that this much dreaded disease has again invaded our town. In what manner it was introduced, we learn not, further than that three patients, Indian children, were discovered in Mr. Berryessa's house, all afflicted with it. As soon as this became known, the Council immediately assembled to devise means for its suppression, or at least to confine it to some particular locality in order to prevent contagion. The attention of the public is directed to an ordinance passed by that body in relation to it, which we publish to-day. It is said that the disease is not very virulent.—Bulletin.

A Camp Meeting is to be held near Sonoma commencing Friday Aug. 26th.

THE CONFIDENCE.—This old favorite with the Sacramento river travelling public, is at present laid up at Martinez on the Straits of Carquinez. The present business on the river, will not justify the Company in running all of their boats.
