Marysville Daily Herald, Number 37, 19 September 1853 — Tk« TIMM. [ARTICLE]

The taste of the age is rather for desultory, detached thoughts, glimpses of life, running sketches on the myriad and multiform incidents and movements that engage and interest this growing people.
Amid the whirl and din of business, the jostling and tumult of the eager throng that "haste to be rich," few find time or inclination to peruse labored productions.
Yielding to the current of the times we force our humble pen into the popular track and talk of things in general.—
The birth of many difficulties, which, in their infancy, seem to awaken the bellicose disposition of the nations, is a peculiar feature of the present age. Cool, calm thinking men pause with astonishment as they review the checkered scene which the great drama exhibits. The great powers of Europe are not content to remain at a stand still and see us prosecute such a peaceful journey on towards the first power on earth. Every nation has become jealous of our fast growing popularity. In arts, and scien-growing popularity. In arts, and sciences, and policies fraught with the wisdom and genius of the age, they see us creeping onward and giving fair promise of future glory ;—while the immense spread of our republican principles is throwing the mantle of deep darkness around their ancient dynasties. In the general turmoil which seems every where arising in the old world, some of the nations are participating from desire and choice, others from necessity, and others still are too much interested to remain idle spectators.

The published correspondence between Col. Watkins and the Consul at Guaymas, is calculated to tingle our ears not a little, and furnishes indications of feelings the reverse of friendly to us. If Mexico has the right therein declared, let us fully understand it ;—but at present we are rather inclined to believe that she will find it difficult to stand up to the ground taken by Navarro whenever we make decided mention of the rights so unequivocally declared in the treaty of peace.

The present position of Spain is a matter of some importance, after insulting our flag and imprisoning our citizens, she cannot be supposed to be particularly friendly,—and some of her late movements portend serious matters which her shallow pretences will not cover. It does not need such vast numbers of troops to prevent fillibustering in Western India—nor is she ignorant that twenty two armed vessels would be of vast advantage on the Cuban Station, in the event of an open difficulty.

That we may get into a snarl with some of our more immediate neighbors is the earnest desire of Russia, for in the rapidly approaching crisis it is of importance to her, that our powers should be crippled either by that, or by internal agitation, so that we may be prevented from exerting any moral or material influence.

The recent occurrence at Acapulco furnishes matter for deliberation, and perhaps it may finally become necessary to more fully establish the fact that it is the intention of our government to protect her citizens from insult. But if in the process of time it should become necessary for us to repel insult, and resent injury in such a mode as would at once be adopted by nations who proceed with less order and regularity—still in this we see no political maelstrom, and we have the vanity to believe (if we know ourselves intimately, and we think we do,) that it would produce no particular difference in the energy with which the general affairs of our model republic are carried out.

THE NEW ENGINE.—We called this morning to see the new engine, brought to town by Mr. Murry, and which is to be submitted to the authorities for purchase. It is a nice affair, and in the hands of our boys will prove a most effective safe-guard against that enemy we so much dread. The machine is of 32 men power, 10 inch cylinder, and has all the improvements which modern taste indicates. Its cost is, we believe, $4000. This is a pretty good price but it is much better in such an expenditure to have a good article. We hope soon to see the "b'hoys run der machine." not in a case of

"Boys run der machine," not in a case of necessity, but for the purpose of showing her excellence and power.

INTERESTING TO SETTLERS ABOUT HERE.

On the 13th inst., two claims of Charles Covilland were filed before the Board of Land Commissioners at San Francisco. One was filed as the Honcut claim, and the other for half of an eleven-league grant—boundaries not stated in notice of proceeding. They were both submitted on briefs.

A notice will be found in this day's paper, announcing an adjourned meeting of the defeated candidates for office, nominations, &c., to come off at the Oriental Hotel to-morrow evening. Rich fun is anticipated. We expect to be there, tho' we are not one of the defeated.

Official Vote of Yuba County.

We publish to-day the official vote of this county as furnished us by Mr. Huston, the Deputy Clerk.

It will be seen that John Bigler's majority over Waldo is 125, and that Stebbins beats Fall for Senator three votes. This last announcement took us by surprise, and, until we in company with Mr. Fall and the Clerk, made a searching investigation of the returns from the different precincts, and found them O. K., so far as the clerk is concerned, we were prepared to believe that swindling had been done.

As it is, we concede, that the returns received from the various precincts of the County, at the Clerk's office, elect

Mr. Stebbins by three votes.

In making this concession we wish it distinctly understood that we do not admit that the returns as received by the Clerk were legal or in accordance with the law, in such cases made and provided. On the contrary we are satisfied that one half of the poll books are defective, and we noticed in a number of instances that no certificate is attached to the poll books at all.

The discrepancy between our statement of Friday last, in which we made Mr. Fall elected by 36 majority, and the official vote, is entirely accounted for.

Our statement then was as follows :

Fall.....	2222
Stebbins.....	2186

Fall's majority.....	36
----------------------	----

The error occurred by passing over, or leaving out the vote received by Stebbins at Lander's Bar. This was an act of negligence either committed by the writer of this article in calling off the returns from the statistical table, or by the clerk in not putting them down when they were called off. Be it as it will, the vote given to Stebbins at Lander's Bar was not counted. Add the 33 votes he received there, to the above 2186, and his vote will be.....2219

Add Emory's Crossing.....	14
---------------------------	----

and his total vote is.....	2233
----------------------------	------

Fall's vote as above.....	2222
---------------------------	------

Add his vote at Emory's Crossing,	8
-----------------------------------	---

We regret exceedingly Mr. Fall's defeat, and with the exception of a few rabid loco foco politicians, there is hardly a man in our city, that does not regret it.

Mr. Fall, himself, is perfectly content that it is so. It was with much difficulty that he could be persuaded to suffer his name to be used in the canvass, and nothing but the hope that his name would add strength to the Ticket, induced him to be a candidate. He has no cause to complain. He received a very flattering vote, and the full returns show, that though his party is in the minority of over 400 votes in the county, he was only defeated by three votes.

When we recollect that yesterday they had, at Gibsonville, a bull and bear fight, a foot race, and other Sunday sports, we are inclined to call California some, on keeping the day holy; but the way they do it up in Ohio beats us all hollow. The editor of the Louisville Courier spent a Sunday in Cincinnati a while ago—and says he dont tell the half of what he saw, nor anything of what he did, when he mentions among the Sunday sports of the Queen City of the West.

“Five wives whipped by drunken husbands; grand regatta on the river between boatmen; eighteen men and three women arrested for disorderly conduct in the streets; several robberies; and an indefinite number of pockets picked.”

Wonder if there is any such thing as capital punishment in those diggins; if there is, hemp must take a rise.

~~We~~ We would compliment the Evening Journal with regard to its increased size, and improved appearance.

time since for murder, was hung on Saturday last.

Later from the South.

Peace has not yet been concluded be-

Peace has not yet been concluded between the whites and Indians.

The whites went out on the day appointed to meet the Indians and conclude the treaty. But three wild Indians made their appearance, who said that the following day was the one appointed—that the whites had made a mistake of one day. So says a report—nothing official is yet received from head quarters.

Two companies—Capt. Owen's and Terry's were sent, on Wednesday evening, to Applegate creek.

Gen. Lane expresses a determination to pitch into them again, if they do not comply with the stipulations of the treaty forthwith.

It is rumored that Captain Rob Williams and his Rangers had a fight with the Applegate Indians a few days since, and killed about twenty, with a loss of but one man wounded.

Mr. J Rogers, of Cram, Rogers & Co's Express, informs us that 30 wagons arrived in Rogue River Valley on Saturday the 27th ult., principally families from Illinois and Missouri; and on Sunday last, six wagons and about six hundred head of beef cattle.

On the 1st inst., the ladies of Yreka presented, through their Captains, Goodwin and Rhodes, two elegantly wrought flags to the Yreka and Humbug companies of mounted volunteers. The presentation was made by Gen. Lane at Camp Alden. This was a most worthy and appropriate tribute to the gallantry of those brave volunteers. "None but the brave deserve the fair."

TROOPS FOR ROGUE RIVER.—On Sunday last four companies of U. S. Infantry, of twenty men each, passed through this place en route for the scene of Indian disturbances in the North. Three companies are from Benicia, in command of Major Patten, the poet and soldier; the other is from Fort Reading, the whole under command of Colonel Wright. The Mountain Herald of the 10th inst., hopes these troops will hasten to the scene of action.

to the scene of action, as it fears peace will not be concluded. Col. Wright's command, we are persuaded, will give a good account of themselves in a very short time.

A BIG LUMP.—Mr. Swartz, of the Washington Quartz Company, brought into our office the other day, a lump of amalgum, weighing 20 lbs., and worth $3,864, the product of less than a week's work. He also exhibited to us several of the richest specimens of gold bearing quartz, taken from their vein, that it has ever been our privilege to behold. A short time since this company lost the track of their lead, but are now upon it again, and at present find it more productive than heretofore.

BAXTER & Co.—We understand that this line have completed their arrangements for running through to Sacramento on this side of the river, via Colusa.—Their animals have already been placed upon the entire route. They have also purchased three new superb Concord coaches and placed them upon the route. One of these came into town on Thursday with 27 passengers aboard!

The Result.

Now that the smoke has cleared away from the battle-field of the late political contest, the results are fast becoming visible. Hundreds who went into the fight flushed with high hopes of a glorious success, and flashing their falchions doughtily in the sunlight, now lie scattered over the plain, promiscuously, without any sort of effort at artistic effect, like "pearls at random strung"—their "lights all fled," their hopes all dead, and their bodies, pierced with a thousand villainous holes, covered with the bloody mantle of defeat.

The lightnings may flash, and the loud thunders rattle—

They heed not, they hear not, they're free from all pain;
They sleep their last sleep, they have fought

their last battle—
No sound can awake them to glory again—
for a dozen months or thereabouts.

RISE OF THE STREAMS.—We are informed by a gentleman just down from Trinity, that the Trinity river had raised some two feet within the past week.—The waters have also risen considerably in the streams in this county, in many instances causing a suspension of fluming operations. We trust this suspension will prove but temporary.
