

cost, or no fraction at all! And yet our Eastern friends affect to know all about our market. They tell us so, and show that they are in earnest by their acts. They regard the low prices that have so long ruled as temporary, and look forward to a revival—and worse, often instruct to hold for paying rates. Would it avail, we could tell them once for all, that for the goods they have sent us, such prices can never come.

LATER FROM NORTHERN CALIFORNIA.—We have received the Crescent City Herald from which we compile the following intelligence.

A few days since an Irishman, known as "Old Patrick," shot an Indian boy near Trinidad. The boy died the day after he was shot, and Patrick was arrested and brought before Justice Parker, who proceeded to take the testimony of witnesses to the fact. Three witnesses were examined, and during the examination of the fourth, Patrick made his escape from the officer in charge, and took to the woods. He has not yet been heard from. It is supposed, however, that he is on the Klamath or Salimon. It is also said that this man Patrick shot another Indian a few days since, and has committed many other outrages on the Indians in the vicinity of Trinidad within the last year. He has not been arrested.

Leland & McComb have established a regular express running from Crescent City to Althouse creek, and one to Smith river, Chetcoe, Pistol river and Gold Beach.

Edward P. Fletcher is a candidate for re-election to the office of County Judge of Klamath.

A passenger train will leave Crescent City for Jacksonville and intermediate points on the arrival of every steamer from San Francisco, adding thus greatly to the comfort of travelers, and ensuring regularity to inland communication.
