

FROM LOWER CALIFORNIA.—From a private source we are informed that the insurgent party are collecting all the Indians together that they can, and arming them to the best of their power. — What their intentions may be, it is impossible to conjecture, but if our informant is correct, they must have some object in view; whether it is aggressive or defensive remains to be proven. . . If the former, they will find a very warm time of it, especially if they cross the frontier.—San Diego Herald.
