

Indian Outbreak in South Oregon.

To Wells, Fargo & Co., we are indebted for the Yreka Herald of Saturday, 6th inst., brought by Rhodes & Lusk, and to Adams & Co. for an extra of the same paper, of Sunday, brought to Shasta by Cram, Rogers & Co. From the latter we obtain the following exciting intelligence:

More Whites killed by the Indians in Rogue River Valley!—A General Outbreak!

Again it is our painful duty to record the cold blooded murder of our fellow citizens in Rogue River Valley. On Thursday last a young man by the name of Edwards was brutally murdered within three miles of the Indian Agency. After the red assassins had shot him, they mutilated his body in a horrible manner with an axe. On Friday night, Mr. Thomas Willis, a highly respected merchant in Jacksonville, while returning from Mr. Wagoner's Ranch, half a mile north of the town, was shot by an Indian from behind a tree, about ten yards from the road. Mr. Willis' wound is considered mortal. The sudden manner in which the Indians pounced upon him, did not allow him time for defence. On the same evening, Mr. Davis' house, about two miles from town, was robbed of a gun, &c. Mr. Davis and Mr. Griffin, his neighbor, attempted to recover the stolen property from the Ranch area. Mr. Griffin was shot through the point of the shoulder and Mr. Davis through the thigh, both arrow wounds. They burned several hay stacks the same day; and several men were shot at, at different places throughout the valley.

~~Several men are missing at different places—not known whether they are killed or not.~~

On Saturday morning, Aug. 6.—Mr. R. Nolin, a miner, being about one mile from Jacksonville, was shot through the body and killed, by some Indians who crept up near his cabin in the bushes. Several other whites were in the cabin at the same

On Saturday morning, Aug. 6.—Mr. R. Nolin, a miner, being about one mile from Jacksonville, was shot through the body and killed, by some Indians who crept up near his cabin in the bushes. Several other whites were in the cabin at the same time.

Business in the Valley has ceased. The miners and farmers are collecting together at different points in the Valley for protection.

It is believed beyond a doubt that the Rogue River, Cow Creek, Grave Creek, Applegate Creek, Umpqua, Shasta, and Klamath Indians, and probably the Pitt Rivers, and also the Indians about the Klamath and other Lakes have united and declared an open and general war against the whites.

We are indebted for the above information to Mr. Ish and Mr. Davis, who arrived here this morning. They bring a petition to the officer in command at Fort Jones in Scott Valley, for such aid, either in troops or arms, as can be procured. We understand that there are but few troops at the Fort, but that they will be able to procure arms and ammunition.

As our informants came up the valley they learned that a battle had just come off near the Mountain House. They killed they supposed, five or six Indians. Mr. Carter had his arm fractured by a rifle ball, and also received an arrow wound in the shoulder. Mr. Dunn was wounded in the shoulder by an arrow.

Now that general Indian hostilities have commenced, we hope that the Government will render such aid as will enable the citizens of the North to carry on a war of extermination until the last red skin of these tribes has been killed. Then, and not until then, are our lives and property safe. Extermination is no longer even a question of time—the time has already arrived, the work has been commenced, and let the first white man who says treaty or peace be regarded as a traitor and coward.
