

The Alta California of the 12th inst. contains the following judicious and admirably conceived paragraph:

We shall next expect to hear that the San Diego Bigler organ has begun to "prepare the minds" of some of the native California Indians in that vicinity for the next election day in eliciting a "majority" of native votes for John Bigler.

The Editor of this paper left San Diego the same morning that this agreeable notice arrived, without having had the pleasure of seeing it. He will probably reply in due time; meanwhile we beg leave to assure the Alta that its complimentary notice shall not pass unremembered or unregarded; for if the "amende honorable" is not proffered before that Editor's return, we will grind out of this organ a reply, to a tune that has seldom been employed since the walls of Jericho fell down.
