

Daily Alta California, Volume 6, Number 192, 4 August 1855 — More Indian Outrages at the North. [ARTICLE]

Back

More Indian Outrages at the North.

TEN MEN KILLED BY THE INDIANS.

Through the Pacific Express Company, we have received an Extra from the Yreka Union office, which gives the following intelligence, obtained from some miners who had arrived in Yreka from Humbug Creek :

On Thursday, 26th July, three drunken Indians

On Thursday, 26th July, three drunken Indians passed down Humbug creek, and shortly after returned coming up the creek, one on horseback and the other two on foot. They came up to Mr. Peters, a miner, and another white man who was with him. Mr. Peters attempted to ascertain from them where they had obtained the liquor they had been drinking, but instead of giving him the information he sought, they began to act in an abusive and outrageous manner, attempting to ride over and abuse the white man who was with Peters. They continued this until Peters became exasperated, and told them to desist or he would shoot them, and drew a revolver. At this, they continued their abuse of the white man still worse, and one of them also drew his revolver, when Peters is reported to have fired and shot him through the body. The other Indians then closed upon Peters, shot him through the breast, snatched his pistol from his hand, and then ran away. The ball entered Peters' breast at the right nipple, and he died in about an hour and a half. Peters, before his death, stated that these same Indians had an old grudge against him, for having taken some stolen stock from them some time ago.

On yesterday morning about daylight, a party of

On yesterday morning about daylight, a party of men from Humbug captured these three Indians on Barkhouse creek ; but in bringing them over to Humbug creek, two of them broke away. The party all fired at them as they ran, but our informant does not know whether they were mortally wounded or not. They escaped.

Last night, the Indians supposed to be from the Applegate tribe, made a descent on Buckeye Bar, Klamath river, and killed nine men. The names of the killed we have not yet been able to learn.

It is hoped that our citizens will promptly turn out to avenge the wholesale slaughter. There are a number of men now in town trying to raise arms and ammunition to go in pursuit of the savages.

Ten of our citizens have thus been cut down by these prowling demons. Let them not be unavenged.

The two Indians who ran away from Humbug, after killing Peters, undoubtedly communicated with a number of the Applegate Indians, who are supposed to be roaming about on the Klamath, below the mouth of Humbug, and who are always thirsting for blood. They probably gathered with them a few of the Klamath Indians, and made this murderous foray upon Buckeye Bar, and then took to the mountains. Let all who travel that way be on their guard.

This article has been automatically clipped from the Daily Alta California 4 August 1855, organised into a single column, then optimised for display on your computer screen. As a result, it may not look exactly as it did on the original page. The article can be seen in its original form in the page view.