LATER FROM ROGUE RIVER.

Fifty Whites killed by the Indians—Battle Fought.

The Yreka Union of the 13th, contains the following melancholy intelligence. Concerning the numbers of the whites on Rogue river, we have already had indefinite accounts. The battle between Major Fitzgerald's company and the Indians is a fresh affair.

On Tuesday morning, 9th inst., a large party of Indians collected and started down Rogue River, killing every white man who happened to fall in their way. At Evans' Ferry they found two or three men whom they murdered, and then left the river for Waggoner's on Louse Creek. Just before they reached W.'s they were met by a party of packers with a large train, who saw from their appearance that there was something wrong with them. Presently the Packers looked back and saw Waggoner's barn on fire, and heard the screams of woman and children in the house; they then cut loose their packs and run for their lives—the Indians pursued them closely, killing one of their mules.

They counted in their flight the bodies of seventeen white men who had been murdered along the road. Many of these was teamsters, and their loads had been scattered in every direction by the Indians, in searching for amunition and liquor. From Waggoner's, it appears that the Indians, now nearly all drunk, again started down Rouge River burning and murdering as they went. On Wednesday they were overtaken by Maj. Fitzgerald with 80 men, and a battle fought, in which 30 Indians and 10 soldiers are reported to have been killed.

Mrs. Waggoner and child were murdered, and five other families along the route pursued by the Indians are said to have shared the same fate. The whole number of whites who have already fallen, from the best accounts, is between 30 and 50.

The Union also contains accounts of another outrage perpetrated by the Rogue River Indians. The party robbed and probably murdered are Messrs. Wilson & Hudson, of Hamburg Bar, a hired man and a family, whom they were taking up to open a Hotel or Boarding House. A Mr. Riley, as he was passing over the summit of the Siskiyou, on the Klamath trail, discovered signs of a conflict, and subsequent search has confirmed the worst fears. Arrows have been found, strewn around in every direction, the ground, in many places, was stained with blood, and on pursuing the trail made by the marauding party, clothes of men, women and children, and finally the body of a murdered man was discovered. A mule also had been killed, the remainder of the train, ten or twelve mules, are now in the hands of the robbers. A pursuing party saw the fires of the Indians on Monday night. A letter from P. H. Nulin, on Indian creek, fully confirms the above.

THEATRICAL.—The Firemen's Benefit, at the METROPOLITAN Theatre, this evening, should not be forgotten by our citizens. It too often has happened on similar occasions that the firemen, in order to make a respectable show of boxes, have been compelled to take nearly all the tickets themselves. To be sure the contribution, individually, is not large, and for this very reason the public should take hold of the matter and bestow their aid to the increase of the Charitable Fund.

The AMERICAN Theatre still continues to attract the masses. The Misses Gougenheims are both announced for this evening in Green Bushes.

At the UNION, Miss Susan Robinson a sort of "infant prodigy," is the star. She made her first appearance last evening, and was raptuously applauded throughout the whole performance.

RISLEYS VATICAN is one of the most popular places of amusement in the city. The feats of agility and strength there exhibited are really wonderful.

The steamer Senator, for the lower coast, will not sail until Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.
