

INDIAN FIGHT AT YREKA.—We were favored last evening with a visit from Col. W. Willer, commander of the American forces at fort Brown, near Shasta. The Colonel very kindly furnished us with the following particulars of the encounter at Yreka Pass, which will prove interesting to our readers.

On the 25th ult., with a command of seventy-two officers and men, they pursued the savages into the above mentioned pass near the Oregon line. On reaching the northern end of the pass, the Indians, in a body numbering about 500 strong, made a most bold and vigorous attack, but were repulsed after a well contested fight, with the loss of sixty or seventy, and driven into the mountains.

During the engagement, Col W. received three wounds, one in the right side, one in the left arm, and another in the left foot. Sergeant Downey was wounded in the left side; Lieut. Douglass was pierced through the body by an arrow, and Lieut. Sava was slightly wounded. There were five privates killed.

During their pursuit they discovered the dead bodies of two females who had been brutally murdered, and their heads stuck in the mud, leaving their persons exposed; besides many other evidences of savage brutality.

The Colonel is an old Florida fighter, though a young man; was at the taking of Vera Cruz, and was severely wounded at the storming of Cerro Gordo, but still looks hale and healthy as though being chased and shot by the Indians agreed with him.—Marysville Express, March 28th.
