

was not well pleased with his entertainment at the tavern. On the first day of the court a hog, under the name of a pig, had been cooked whole and laid upon the table. No person attacked it. It was brought the next day and the next, and treated with the same respect; and it was on the table on the day on which the court adjourned. As the boarders finished their dinner Judge Dooly rose from the table, and in a solemn manner addressed the clerk: "Mr Clerk," said he, "dismiss the hog upon his recognizances until the first day of next court. He has attended so faithfully during the present term that I don't think it will be necessary to take any security."

"KEEP YOUR OWN COUNSEL."—There is a deal of truth in this proverb: "Never trust a married man who loves his wife, with a secret, for he will tell her, and she will tell her sister, and her sister will tell anybody and everybody."

LATEST KNOW NOTHING DEVELOPMENT.—The token of recognition has finally been discovered by a close observer. When one Know Nothing wishes to recognize another, he closes one eye, makes an O with his thumb and forefinger, and places his nose through it, which being interpreted reads—

"Eye—nose—O."

"I—knows—Nothing."

INDIAN CONVENTION.—All the Indians of the district extending from the Moquelumne to the Mariposa Rivers, held a "pow-wow," at the Bay State Ranch, on the margin of the North Fork of the Calaveras River, during the last week. The Calaveras Chronicle states that among the tribes assembled, the Tuolumne Indians were considered the tallest and most active, but the Mariposa Indians are the best marksmen. A pole about sixty feet high was erected on the ground, having a small clump of brush tied at the top, almost the size of the "liberty cap," as usually represented. The Mariposa tribe alone succeeded in planting their arrows in this target, and it was well filled with their shafts. At this Grand Council it was supposed there were from 600 to 800 Indians present.
