We copy the following from the Crescent City Herald of the 20th inst.

INDIAN AFFAIRS IN ILLINOIS VALLEY. Up to the time of our last issue the Indian difficulties in that section had progressed to an alarming extent. Volunteer companies were in search of the Indians, who had all left the Reservation on Rogue river. Mr. T. A. Jackson came through accompanied by a guard a short distance of the route, and two days after his arrival a letter was received, written by Mr. Shoudy, and dated Applegate, June 10th, from which, by permission, we make the following extract:

"Yesterday, Mr. Jackson got Mr. J. Dyer and Mr. D. McHues to guard him over to Mooney's Ranch. On returning home they were waylaid by the Indians and both killed, one having received seven balls and the other ten through the body in various places. Some soldiers who passed along this morning found the bodies and buried them. This of course causes considerable excitement, and families are obliged to move to places of safety. Travel has for the moment almost ceased, and there is but little doing in the diggings here or at Jacksonville. It has rained all this afternoon, and two or three trains have just come through without experiencing any trouble."

THE INDIAN DIFFICULTIES IN ILLINOIS VALLEY SETTLED. From G. S. Rice, of Sailor Diggins, we learn that news had been brought in of the adjustment of the Indian troubles, it being reported that the Indians returned to the Reservation, after having given up six of their number concerned in the murder of J. B. Hill, on Indian Creek, and also in the murder of Dyer and McHues on Applegate.

P. S. Mr. B. F. Dorris, of this city, returned last evening from Yreka; he passed through Illinois Valley on Sunday; reports every thing quiet, and confirms the statement that the murderers of Hill, Dyer and McHues, were given up to the Indian agent. Some soldiers and volunteers, however, are still out.
